

The Past Week in Limericks (Week of September 11) by Rev. James Barnhill

This week there's this fellow named Trump
Who the liberals thought only a grump
But then did he dare to put forward child care
And announce it as part of his stump?

And Hilary couldn't sustain
The challenges of her campaign
So she swooned with a cough, took a couple days off
Says pneumonia was really to blame.

Then there's that rascal named Snowden
To whom Russia is really beholden
A pardon looked, well, like snowflakes in Hell
Til Stone with his new movie strolled in.

The market just couldn't withstand
Investors' requests to demand
Whether Chairperson Yellen will stymie their dwellin'
In interest-rate fantasy land.

And the whole country paused to remember
15 years now have passed this September
All our innocence lost, and the lives that were cost
When our futures became so much grimmer.
